Summary of reasons for decision:

The video file strongly sexualizes a teenage girl. The girl poses provocatively while the man who is filming her makes appreciative comments about her body and direct her to remove clothing. The video file is deemed objectionable under s3(2)(a) of the Films, Videos, and Publications Classification Act 1993 because it promotes and supports the exploitation of young people for sexual purposes. It is a record of the girl's exploitation and has been made by and for the sexual gratification of the man involved. The first person perspective means that it would strongly appeal to those who have a sexual interest in teenage girls and as a video file it can be shared widely among like-minded individuals. The video presents young persons as appropriate subjects for adult sexual fantasy and desire. The continued availability of such material encourages and reinforces a sexual interest in young people and perpetuates the exploitation of the girl involved. The Classification Office has considered the effects of the New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990 on the application of the classification criteria. The classification of this publication interferes with the right to freedom of expression, but this is an outcome that is consistent with Parliament's intention that publications that promote and support the exploitation of young people for sexual purposes be deemed objectionable and reflects the concern of New Zealand society to protect young persons from sexual exploitation.
